diya (the akhand jyoti)

A diya, deepak, diya is a lamp which represents knowledge, enlightenment and wisdom. Diya is a part of Indian culture as it is an indicator of light that destroy darkness, which is used in special occasions in India.

A Sanskrit shloka :

Shubham Karoti Kalyanem- Aaragran Diya-Sampada |
Shanti-Buddhi-Vinashaya Diya-Jyoti-Nemostute ||
Diya-jyoti Para-Brahma Diya-Jyoti-Jagadguru |
Diya-Harati Me-Papan Diya-Jyoti-Nemostute ||

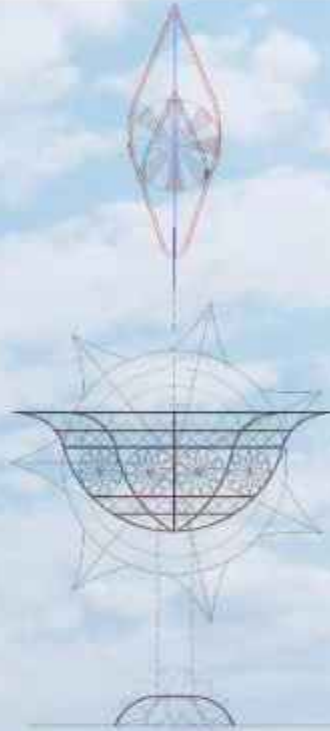

Which means I pray my solution (pratikara) to the light / lamp which brings auspiciousness, prosperity, good health, abundance of money and wealth, and the destruction of the intellect's enemy. This shloka is recited while lighting the lamp. Light is considered as a symbol of auspiciousness, prosperity and abundance in many cultures.

The eternal lamp (akhand jyoti) refers to the flame that burns without interruption. The jyoti burns all the time in the honour of the divine god. Thus diya is a very important part of Indian culture and is lit at new ventures and inauguration by every person for good luck and prosperity.

The sculpture represents a lamp with jyoti which signifies enlightenment of the nation and its growing future in every aspect. It rests on the petals of lotus flower (national flower of India) leading a positive energy and aesthetic vibe thus creating an ideal environment.

The sculpture has 7 faces which symbolizes 7 religion of India which all together united as one nation in a shape.

The flame (jyoti) is a symbol of knowledge, purity, good luck, prosperity. Jyoti, a 24 ring structure inspired from Ashoka Chakra in tri-colour to represent India, the flame shows growing, evolving and stronger India. And akhand jyoti here refers to the eternal prosperity and power of the nation.
